Academic Scandals

By Dr. R. Pletsch

Eric M. Anderman, a professor in Educational Psychology at The Ohio State University, has, state University, has, along with his colleagues, studied cheating by students for the last 20 years. His studies indicate that cheating is widespread and that it widespread and that it increases as the students go into high school.

More than one half of high school grads admit to having cheated in at to having cheated in at least one class. While this is shocking to very few, he states that the high schools considered "high performing" are not exempt from this and may even be a more like. may even be a more likely place to find the cheating. Even though these students might be considered the least likely to need to cheat, they found many instances of a high number of cheating activities.

A very prestigious high school in New York had a large-scale scandal with students sharing answers to Spanish assignments as a Facebook group. Previously students at the same school cheated on a language exam via text messaging. These students justified cheating as acceptable because they needed to get into "good colleges". The students they were competing against were probably doing the same. They believed that everyone who cares about the results have cheated or at least considered it, but out of fear of being caught, or an attack of integrity decided not to.

Recently at highly regarded high school in San Antonio, 90 freshmen and 38 Juniors were accused of copying from a Teacher Resource Guide and Wikipedia. In Long Island, at least five schools found their students were paying others to take their ACT or SAT college entrance exams. They paid from $500 to $3600 to other students to take the test. It is not likely that kids in our area could afford this. Yet those successful at this may have taken the spots from certain colleges that could have been available to those who don't cheat.

It is scary that this is often found at the University level. The military academies have an honor code, but a quick computer scan will find scandals at West Point, and the Air Force Academy. The Naval Academy once expelled two dozen students for passing on test questions. Harvard has had incidents where 125 were expelled. In another case, 70 of 279 accused students in an "Intro-duction to Congress" class in 2012 dropped out to avoid being expelled. Most people do not real-ize that Ted Kennedy was expelled from Harvard as a sophomore. It is easy to find on the internet that he had someone else take a Spanish exam for him. No one is immune.

Professor Anderman believes cheating is not inevitable, but the more money the students have, the more they have at their disposal to find ways to do the cheating. If the teacher is worried, they can make students show mastery with projects or presentations or solving certain problems. These are less likely to be plagiarized. It is more likely to set a level playing field.

There was a time when, if parents were called in with an accusation, the administrators knew it would be handled. Now we are not so sure. My hope is that we may once again be able to talk to our students morals integrity. I truly miss the day when a handshake and your word truly meant something.

"Animal Secrets" At Children's Museum

Kohl Children's Mu-um, 2100 Patriot Boulevard, Glenview announces the return of the popular exhibit "Animal Secrets," March 20th through Aug. 26th. Families will explore the hidden habitats and secret lives of forest animals. Using imaginative roleplay and hands-on activities, children will discover nature from an animal's point of view in naturalistic environ-ments, including a meadow, woodland, cave and naturalists' tent.

The program is designed for children ages birth to 8, preschool to third grade school groups, and has English Spanish-language text panels.

Visitors can explore a woodland clearing, crawl through a tree's roots, play in a chipmunk's den, investigate a raccoon's log and curl up in an eagle's nest.

Illustrated murals, including images of wild-flowers, blue heron, butterflies and a rabbit, transport visitors to a grassy meadow. Visitors can follow four winding sets of animal tracks and listen to specific animal sounds to locate the animals. Visitors can create their own butterfly wing patterns using multicolored mosaic tiles.

Children can explore the secret world of a woodland cave using tethered lights to search its outcroppings and niches, and assemble a three-dimensional, larger-than-life ant.

Literacy Center Train Volunteers

Aquinas Literacy Center, 1715 W. 35th st., recently trained 11 new volunteer English Literacy tutors to address the societal need of adult education in English as a Second Language.

The Center continues to grow as more students register and participate in supplemental learning. Volunteer tutors are needed to instruct limited English proficient adult learners for 90 minutes per week. All instruction is one-on-one and training is provided. Knowledge of a second language is not required; all instruction is in English. If you are interested in becoming a volunteer tutor, the training workshop for this school year is: Friday, April 27th from 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, April 28th from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tutors must attend both days for certification. For more information contact Sabrina Poulin, at (773) 927-0512 or email her at Sabrina@aquinasliteracycenter.org. New volunteers in front row are Keith Mounia, Arlette Luviano, Marcelo Umana and Tim Corwin. 2nd row: Tamara Matthews and Sheila Durkin. 3rd row: Sue Lamy and Dan Roth. 4th row: David McKinney and David Lukomski. Not shown is Emily Perez.

Applications For After School Matters

After School Matters® is accepting teen applica-tions for its Spring 2018 program session. More than 400 programs in the arts, communications and leadership, sports and STEM will be offered at nearly 150 Chicago public high schools, as well as Chicago Park District, Chicago Public Library and community organiza-tion locations throughout the city. Programs will continue to be offered downtown at Gallery 37 Center for the Arts. Teens can search and apply for spring programs online at afterschoolmatters.org.

More than 7,000 paid apprenticeship and internship opportunities will be available with stipends of up to $425 (depending on the program level), and interns can earn up to $10.50 per hour.

The programs offer teens an opportunity to develop their current skills while incorporating 21st Century skills like collaboration, problem solving, social awareness and more.

A few of the exciting programs offered include:
Kelvyn Park Bikes –
Sports. Location: Kelvyn Park High School, Hermosa. This program offers teens the opportunity to explore the biking industry. Teens will develop hands-on mechanic skills, organize community events and participate in weekly field trips. Upon successful completion of the program, teens are eligible for summer employment with the Chicago Park District and West

Town Bikes.

Museum 44 – STEM.
Location: National A.
Philip Randolph Pullman Porter Museum, Pullman. Using pop culture, various media and professional mentors, teens will produce a television show in this program. Teens will learn about music production, film production, marketing, promo-tions and media from industry professionals

while working on a film that can improve their communities

Teatro Americano Arts. Location: OPEN Center for the Arts, South Lawndale. In this program, teens explore different aspects of theater production and performance including acting, movement, voice, improvisation, writing, marketing, costuming, and stage management. At the conclusion of the program, teens present a full-length play in a professional theater setting.
Teen Arts Council –

Arts. Location: University of Chicago Arts Incubator, Washington Park. The Teen Arts Council collaborates with the University of Chicago Arts + Public Life initiative to develop skills in arts administration, community engagement and event planning, while providing opportunities for other teens to engage with the arts. The Council members work with university staff and local partners to develop projects and public events for various audiences. Territory Urban Design Team – Communica-tions & Leadership. Location: Roosevelt High School, Albany Park. In this program, teens will work in art, architecture, urban planning, entrepreneurship, community organizing and public health. Teens will have the opportunity to research, design and implement ideas to activate public spaces.

Urban Hardball and Softball – Sports. Loca-tion: Columbus Park, Austin. Teens in this program will train to become umpires and coaches by learning the rules of base-ball and softball and developing their leadership and communication skills. Teens are able to practice what they learn with little league programs.

Windy City Harvest
Youth Farm – STEM. Location: Neighborhood Housing Services, North Lawndale. In the Windy City Harvest Youth Farm North Lawndale program, teens learn what it takes to grow healthy food in the urban environment. Participants grow, harvest, sell and cook more than 40 varieties of fruits and vegetables and showcase their work at a community famer's market. Teens can search and apply for Spring 2018 programs at afterschoolmatters.org. Programs are free and open to Chicago teen residents who are at least 14 years of age (16 years of age for internships) and are high school students. Application features include an interactive map to help teens search for programs and a full Spanish translation on a mobile-friendly platform. For questions about programs and applications, call 312-742-4182 or email applications@afterschoolmatters.org.

Spring Camp At Brookfield Zoo
