

Tennis Improvements For McKinley Park

The McKinley Park tennis courts are back open after being resurfaced by the Chicago Park District. The six courts along 37th street remain strictly for tennis. New striping for four new pickleball courts has been added to the two Western blvd. courts which can still be used for tennis.