A Different View Of Global Warming

By Dr. R. Pletsch

The following was taken from a speech at the Hillsdale College National Leadership Seminar on April 24, 2023. It was delivered by Bjorn Lomberg, President of the Copenhagen Consensus Center. While he agrees that climate change is real, he also has a growing number of scientists and economists that it is doubtful to cause the world to end by 2031 as Rep. Ocasio-Cortez has claimed.

He reports official data that shows that many of the more worrisome statistics are not true. The landfall of hurricanes has been on a steady decline since the 1900s. In fact in 2022, it was the second lowest year recorded but that does not fit the narrative of those in charge. Many stats have been verified since the early 1980s with satellite imagery. Examples of wildfires like we are expensioned in Consideration riencing in Canada and the Western USA are more rare than the press would make you think. Fifty years ago it is possible that we would not have heard about the fires in Canada as most are in remote wilderness. One of the largest mistakes made was the report on Australian wildfires from 2019 -2020. While it was closer to some cities, the satellite imaging showed that there were many fires larger in Australia and it was actually a below average year for total

Mr. Lomberg believes that it is hard to have reasonable conversations due to the inability of the left to consider man's ability to invent things that fight natural disasters and save people. TV cameras have shown many people dying in floods, drought, etc. but the numbers of deaths have drastically fallen since the 1920s when nearly 500,000 died from these causes. Though you might think differently, international data shows that in the year 2022 fatalities were down to 11,000, even though there are countless millions now inhabiting the earth. But it does not fit the nar-

People are resilient and help rescue others. Humans have the ability to solve problems. Remember, New Orleans was built below sea level and the size of the city keeps growing because people are sure they are smarter than Mother Nature. The whole country of Netherlands is below sea level, but the intricate work has allowed them to build the world's 14th largest airport in a space that was at one time a sea. It is also noted that all the Great Lakes were formed by glaciers. There were no cars around to cause them to melt. Our ancestors adapted and moved.

Mr. Lomberg believes we will never reach 100% renewable energy. The most possible by 2050 would be 30%. The cost would be exorbitant, estimated by national economic groups to be $5,000 per year per person. That would get us to maybe 80%. Even if the people had the money, most would be unwilling to vote for those advancing lWilliam Nordhaus, a Yale Climate Economist, shows we do more against shows we do more against global warming by doing nothing. Even though some plans include China and India, very few believe they will participate fully. Mr. Nordhaus has won the Nobel Prize in Feonomics, as have in Economics, as have many of the people in his organization. They state the European Economic Union believes only 3% of every dollar spent on global warming actually is a program that helps. Countries would be better off giving that money away to people who could use the 97 cents by their own choice. They also believe the Paris Climate Accord shows very little difference. Companies are making so much money that they go along. The study shows that solar and wind power will not make any difference because it is unable to produce enough energy cheaply enough to make a difference. Those wishing to see the full report may use the internet. There are some very interesting programs involved, but it is always good to read both sides of any issue.

Achievement Award For Cook County Assessor

Dan Snow, Director of Data Science, is presenting on PTAXSIM during ChiHackNight. January 17, 2023

The Cook County Assessor's Office received a National Association of Counties Achievement Award for the creation of Award for the creation of a tool called the Property Tax Simulator, also known as PTAXSIM. This is a software code package implemented in the coding language R and is designed to recaland is designed to recal-culate changes to Cook County property tax bills. It uses real assess-

It uses real assessment, exemption, TIF, and levy data to generate historic, line-by-line tax bills for properties in Cook County from tax years 2006 to 2020. Policy makers, researchers, and journalists can now create historical counterfactual scenarios to determine how policy changes could impact the property tax system.

"This award is a testament to our continued commitment to using modern tools to build transparency, trust, and educate stakeholders throughout the County," said Assessor Fritz Kaegi. "Researchers and policymakers can PTAXSIM to analyze the whole system of appeals, exemptions, and tax levies – an unprecedented resource for academics, journalists, and policymakers.

Since its publication, PTAXSIM has been featured in a recorded talk for civic tech enthusiasts, received public suggestions for added data, used to produce five counterfactual analyses, and is currently in use by external policy researchers.

PTAXSIM is an R package that can be downloaded at www.cookcountyassessor.com/property-tax-simulator-tool. The CCAO Data Department welcomes questions at Assessor.Data@cookcountyil.gov.

Awareness Day For Glioblastoma

The fifth annual Glioblastoma Awareness Day will be observed on Wednesday, July 19th to recognize the most common, complex, treatment-resistant, deadliest type of brain cancer. National Brain Tumor Society spearheaded this annual event in 2019 to support survivors and their loved ones, to remember those who are not longer with us and to honor leaders working toward a cure and better quality of life for those living with this devastating disease.

Leading up to July 19th, stories, information and ways to take action will be shared and on GBM day, video program will highlight patient and caregiver experiences.

14,490 Americans will receive a glioblastoma diagnosis in 2023, and 10,000 will succumb this year.

Four drugs have been approved by the FDA and one device, specifically for glioblastoma. For more information, visit braintumor.org.

Penguin Chick At Shedd Aquarium

Shedd Aquarium is celebrating a new arrival to the penguin colony. A rockhopper chick, the first for the species in eight years has hatched and is being cared for by its parents and the animal care

The chick began pipping, the process of breaking out of its egg, on June 15th after developing for about 32 days. The chick currently weighs almost 2 pounds and is growing daily thanks to regular feedings.

The chick will spend time on exhibit with its parents and behind the scenes with Shedd caretakers, so guests might get a peek of the new arrival in Polar Play Zone.

Guests may recognize the chick's parents, Edward and Annie, two penguins that rose to stardom following field trip viral videos and were the subject of their own subsequent children's book.

The first few months of life can be crucial for the development of young penguins. The next big milestone will be increased socialization with animal care staff.

Shedd Aquarium cares for two species of penguin on exhibit, rockhopper (Eudyptes penguins chrysocome) and Magellanic penguins (Spheniscus magellanicus). The aquarium has had success in breeding both species in the past but has put a special emphasis on rock-hopper breeding this year, as that species is underrepresented in zoos and aquariums. Southern rockhopper penguin populations in zoos and aquarium are managed through a Species Survival Plan with 16 participating AZA-accredited facilities in the United States. The last rockhopper chick born at Shedd was Diego, who hatched in 2015.

CDPH Report Details STI Clinic Visits

The Chicago Department of Public Health reeased a comprehensive, 146-page report that details activities and demo-graphic profiles of more than 42,000 patients served at the City's sexually transmitted infection specialty clinics over a five-year period between 2017-2021. The specialty clinics provide confidential HIV/STI testing, STI treatment, linkage to HIV care and HIV pre-exposure prophylaxis, and vac-COVID, and influenza.

More than half of the patients seen from 2017-2021 were Black, 17% were Hispanic, and 15% were white.

The Specialty Clinics administered chiamydia tests, gonorrhea tests

CDPH's Syndemic Infectious Disease Bureau compiled and analyzed the data that went into the report including the proportion of positive chlamydia, gonorrhea, and HIV specimens, demographics, including sex assigned at birth, gender, race/ethnicity, age, MSM status, and visit type, stratified by clinic and presented as overall. The three STI Specialty Clinics currently operated by CDPH's SID Bureau are:

IRIS Y. MARTINEZ

This week, the Chicago Tribune published an article by Laura Rodriguez Presa that provided the horrific details of the murder of Karina Gonzalez and her daughter in a domestic violence incident with her husband and the father of her children. He also shot their son, who thankfully survived and is reported to be recovering.
Ms. Gonzalez' story is heartbreaking.

Victims will not trust a system that will not protect them. Without the bravery of those who file protective and firearm restraining orders, both law enforcement and the court system do not have the tools to protect victims of abuse, their children, coworkers, neighbors, and communities. Many victims will never have the chance to become sur-

Domestic violence incidents (as well as the increase in mass shootings) highlight the need for more use of our "red flag" laws, which are orders that allow law enforcement to temporarily remove firearms from an individual that poses a threat to themselves or others. Increased use would also provide situational awareness and in-creased safety for all criminal justice partners involved in the process. Waiting until a domestic situation escalates to a 911 call endangers everyone involved.

Although my office does not generally serve orders nor can my office arrest perpetrators, I am committed to providing the leadership needed to pursue a proactive approach for increased education and prevention. To begin, we will expand our law enforcement trainings on how to serve protective orders to augment the provide information on how to seek these orders and ensure cultural competency and language assistance is available, and we will connect those seeking protective orders to critical support serv-
