

We Did It Again!

By Dr. R. Pletsch

The Inauguration will mark the continued peaceful transfer for the people of the United States. If you look at history, this is a great accomplishment. There have been many articles claiming that this might not occur. Many of the press predicted they did not expect it. The election was a landslide victory. Despite the bad press, nothing could happen to President Trump in court that seemed to lower his popularity. The opinion of the people appears to have been quite solid.

We all have our own personal opinions and reasons you voted the way you did. People will write about it for a long time. The issue that seems to be significant lately was the January 6th insurrection hearings. The hearings had testimony that the defense had photos of 35 known government agents in the Capitol at the time of the supposed insurrection. This should be no surprise. I had several friends that did this during the 1968 convention. Most people who know anyone in any Police line expected it. But in the testimony, the FBI and CIA stated there were no agents undercover at the scene. But surprise, after the election, Attorney General Garland admitted that 35 agents were present at the scene. Why did they not admit it in the beginning? Why is it the exact same number they had photos of? Sure it wasn't 34 or 36? Some people have speculated that this would end the case.

Those in charge may know. It just felt like the hearing was over then. Those in the coverup will probably be pardoned anyway. These facts are easy to find. Just be careful of the dates. Because originally Fact Check stated that it was a false accusation. We will learn more in the future because this information will probably be used in many academic articles. The truth is, you might find it impossible to find normal citizens that could list the 34 counts they convicted Trump of. But the people overwhelmingly trusted the Republicans and many polls show he is more popular now than immediately after the election.