How is Your School?

By Dr. R. Pletsch

We are undergoing a time of transformation, not only in the world but in our schools. We have come to a time when groups are legally taking "parents' rights" away. Many schools are known to have lost their parents' rights because some elected officials traded the rights away for other items and these items can items and these items can vary, with many of these that may seem useful to other people. The range can be great like more street lights, or new roads or almost anything. We must watch our politi-cians, especially in Springfield.

What parents want is often not what they get. You may think of some politicians who don't vote the way you thought they would. They might not have lied, they just didn't pay attention. People want to be elected to the new Police Boards, School Boards, you name it and these jobs are exciting and important for our communities. I'm glad that many are interested, but when you look at cre-dentials, decide if you want someone who has worked hard all their lives or has worked at home or if they are a community organizer or someone whose only cre-dentials include working for other politicians. Also note who endorses them. It is highly likely that the candidate will vote like them.

Now many of us are interested in these things, but do you believe this candidate will represent your ideas and not the party line. When it comes time to vote again, party affiliation or the candidates's race or sex should be low on your list because you may get someone who does not vote the way you want. If things are not going well in your school, these jobs can be important but they can be strenuous. They can be almost any subject that might come up that you would have to be pre-pared about. Think of what really annoys you in your school. Does your school have explicit sex books for primary stuor bathrooms dents, shared by male and female students? Recently there have been people that want all school buses to be electric, window air conditioners eliminated in classrooms and adding tougher sci-ence and math subjects to high school graduation requirements.

Remember that just because an issue may be new, doesn't mean it's good or bad. Who thought we would be worried about tent cities? There are so many possible sub-jects out there it is almost impossible to know what will be next. You should will be next. You should always be open to listen. You don't have to agree with the president, the governor, the mayor, the principal or me. But give us all a chance to speak. Teachers should not bring items that are against the items that are against the law to be presented if it is not part of the curriculum. They carry too much weight in the minds of our youngsters. So parents get elected.

Brookfield Zoo's 42nd annual Holiday Magic®, lights festival takes place Dec. 1st-3rd, 7th-10th, 14th-17th, 21st-23rd, and 26th-31st, from 3 to 9 p.m. (Brookfield Zoo will not open until 3 p.m. on these dates.) The park will be illu-minated with two million LED lights, creating a magical winter wonder-land. Light displays of giant animals—bison, reindeer, giraffe, and bear—can be seen throughout the Zoo, and guests will stroll through two, 300-foot light tunnels synchronized to seasonal tunes. Adding to the ambience are the nearly 900 lit and decorated community and corporate trees located on the malls and around Roosevelt Fountain. Nightly entertainment from 5 to 8 p.m. takes place throughout the Zoo. At the North Pole, located in The Pavilions, guests can take in performances by Those Funny Little People and juggling elves, and youngsters can share their wish lists and have their photos taken with Santa. Youngsters can also deposit their holiday wish lists in the Santa Letter Drop Box. On the Nature Stage, zoogoers can watch professional ice carvers create frozen works of art from giant blocks of ice.
