

National Conventions

By Dr. R. Pletsch

The National political conventions were just recently completed. Because there were no questions as to who the candidates were going to be, they raised little apparent excitement in our community. I personally saw most of the two conventions. They were by many opinions just too very long commercials for the candidates. I watched some on MSNBC, switching to Fox and CNN. Then finally I found the best for me -- CSPAN which showed the conventions in their entirety with no interruptions to tell you what the speaker "really meant", while talking over other speakers. CSPAN, by law, gave rebuttal time to the other party. These I did not watch.

I talked to as many as I could bringing up the conventions. Most said they did not watch much citing things like, I know who I'm voting for anyway, I won't change my mind; or it's just boring. I asked many people simple questions like who did you hear that impressed you or things like that. I asked one group of ladies what they thought of Hillary's speech and they agreed that it was great and she looked great and she should have been the candidate -- the funny thing was, she was not the speaker until the next day. They just gave me their opinions, not facts. I realized they never watched the convention. I asked a few from the other side, wasn't it terrible when it started raining during the speeches in the Rose Garden? A few said oh yes. But, as many of you know, the weather was perfect. They also were just trying to answer the question, but never saw the convention.

The one issue that came up from many of the people was the fact that Bette Middler made fun of the First Lady for having an accent and not sounding American. In our neighborhoods, between the Hispanic, Chinese and Eastern Europeans, many of us, or at least members of our families, have thick accents. A few of the college kids had similar stories that Grandma or someone else has been living here a long time and still sound very foreign. They pretty much agreed that any political party that disrespects their Grandma would not get their votes. This is an unintended consequence but a reason politicians and their spokespersons should be careful. While the people around here were probably having a good time, the insult hurt many others.

If you did not watch the conventions, no big deal. You live in the United States, you do what you want. If you did watch them, I hope you listened to the speakers and not the analysts before and during the programs that tried to lessen what was said.

GoCPS Revises Application Process

Chicago Public Schools announces changes to the GoCPS application process.

Seventh grade spring NWEA scores are used in the application and selection processes to determine students' eligibility in the high school selective enrollment process, in addition to the enrollment process of over 100 academic programs, including International Baccalaureate.

Typically, students must score a minimum percentile of 24 on both their spring reading and math NWEA exams in the year prior to applying (i.e., seventh grade spring scores for high school programs). Students with IEPs and English learners must have a combined percentile of 48, but do not need to achieve the 24th percentile on each exam.

To determine eligibility for students applying for high school admission for the fall of 2021, CPS will consider students' highest NWEA scores from Winter, Fall or Spring of 2019.

If students do not have any valid NWEA scores from these administration windows, or have not taken the NWEA with CPS, the district will be administering the exam in October, on select weekends. More information is available at go.cps.edu under "NWEA MAP".

Many programs consider students' grades and GPA as a component of the selection process. During remote learning last spring, most students received final grades that accurately reflected their learning and work. Some students were not able to participate in virtual remote learning. For the 2020-21 high school admission process, the district will use the highest scores of either their final grades or the average of their first and second quarter grades.

The selective enrollment exam is administered during the winter of eighth grade as a component of the selection process for selective enrollment high schools. CPS plans to administer this exam in person as scheduled during the winter of SY2020-21.

Because attendance was not tracked during remote learning in the spring, attendance will not be used as an admissions criteria for the fall of 2021.

Due to the transition to remote learning, these information sessions will not be required for the SY2020-21 application process to IB programs. Auditions for students applying to fine and performing arts programs will be conducted remotely.

Testing for selective enrollment elementary school programs including gifted and classical programs will be administered in person during the winter of SY2020-21. Students applying to fifth through eighth grade must achieve a minimum NWEA score to apply to gifted, classical programs and academic centers. For these students, CPS will consider students' highest NWEA scores from Winter, Fall or Spring of 2019.

Cluster programs are designed for students requiring a significantly modified curriculum with moderate to intensive supports in a separate classroom from general education peers for the majority of the day. Prior to the upcoming application cycle, cluster students could not participate in the GoCPS high school application process. This fall, eighth grade cluster students will be able to apply through GoCPS.

Families will have ample time to research their options and apply to their preferred high schools. Key dates are as follows:

Sept. 14th: The GoCPS website, with refreshed content for the upcoming admissions cycle, will be available to start researching their options. Oct. 12th: The application opens. Dec. 11th: Deadline to submit applications.

For more information, visit go.cps.edu or contact the Office of Access and Enrollment at accps@cps.edu or (773) 553-2060.

Historic Births At Shedd Aquarium

Within twelve hours, a beluga whale and a Pacific white-sided dolphin at Shedd Aquarium delivered calves. The arrivals follow the birth of another beluga calf just ten days earlier, on Aug. 21st.

On Aug. 30th, Naya, a 31-year-old beluga, delivered two calves, a rare event that scientists believe occurs at a rate of less than 1% for the species. The second calf was stillborn.

At just 66 pounds, the first-born calf is considered premature -- a result of twinning, which brings a unique set of developmental hurdles. The hope is to witness nursing and bonding between the two, and significant growth in the calf, in coming days.

On Aug. 31st, Katrl, a 33-year-old Pacific white-sided dolphin, delivered her calf after two hours of labor. The animal care team has observed mom and calf swimming together and will be watching for nursing behavior.

Additional updates on all new arrivals will be shared via Shedd's Facebook, Twitter and Instagram pages.

For those interested in providing important support during this time, you can learn more about ways to give at <https://www.shedd-aquarium.org/about-shedd/support-us>.
